MANSFIELD GOLF CLUB

HISTORY EST. 1910

---

1910– 1920

---

9 holes adjacent to Mansfield Cemetery

Mansfield Golf club was officially formed in July 1910 with a short course developed on land adjacent to the Mansfield Cemetery. The Club prospered for several years, but went into recess following the outbreak of the First World War, reforming in 1921.

---

1921– 1930

---

Our second golf course - Fords Creek Course

In 1921 the club moved to land known as Smith's, a cow paddock of sorts on Fords Creek where golf was played until 1930. The courses were primitive, the greens were sand scrapes and fairways were grazing areas for livestock. No mechanical equipment was used on these courses. The Smith's course was so bad that in 1928 the committee agreed to find suitable other land for the development of a new golf course. Through all this the club produced some excellent golfers, one at least played off scratch and another plus two.

1929 and Onwards

---

Development of current golf course

A 12-hole golf course was first developed on land near the sale yards, with grass greens and mown fairways. In 1937 the club purchased further adjacent land on which the remaining 6 holes were constructed. The clubhouse on the Fords Creek course, primitive as it was, was moved to the Sale Yards Course, where members enjoyed all the conviviality golf deserves.

1950 - Current

---

The Club House

In 1950 a parcel of land, on which this clubhouse stands, was purchased. A new clubhouse was constructed, with the help of volunteer members. It was not until 1959 that the club obtained a liquor licence. Part of the licensing requirements included clubhouse extensions incorporating showers and other amenities to the satisfaction of the licensing inspector. This club was the first country club in Victoria to be registered under the amended Liquor Licensing Act. From this time onwards the club purchased or acquired several parcels of land within the current golf course layout, including the practice fairway and the now currently vacant Elvin Street land, the many unused roads throughout the golf course and other parcels on the perimeter as they became available.
